THE COMPROMISE.

On Thursday last the members of the Compromise Commission, consisting of three Republican and two Democratic Senators, three Democratic and two Republican Representatives, four Justices of the Supreme Court, who have chosen a fifth, as umpire, Justice Bradley, a Republican, met and adopted rules for their governance, and the two Houses in joint session have commenced on the Electoral count, the President of the Senate opening the packages and handing them to the tellers, who read and make a list of the votes, which is handed to the President of the Senate, who if no objection be made, declares the result. In case the vote of a State is objected to, the two Houses separate and the objection is submitted to each House, and no electoral vote of any State from which only one return has been received, can be rejected save by an affirmative vote of both Houses. If two or more returns are in possession of the President of the Senate they are to be submitted to the Board of Arbitration, which shall decide which is the true one. As the certificates are opened in alphabetical order, the first of the disputed States, Florida, may probably be reached to-day or Monday. As there is no limit as to time, it may be a week or more before the final result is reached and the next President of the United States announced by name.

The States in alphabetical order have been passed upon and counted up to Florida, the objections to the certificates from which State were referred to the Board of Arbitration, and the Senate returned to its chamber. Up to the present writing the electoral votes of Alabama, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Connecticut and Delaware have been counted—55 votes for Tilden, and 9 for Hayes.

BY WHOSE ORDERS.

A week or two since we gave, as a specimen, the manner in which the returns from Vermont parish had been manipulated by the notorious Louisiana Returning Board in favor of the Hayes Electors. The returns from Vermont parish showed a vote of 1 Republican and 64 Democratic, which was returned by the Board as 179 Republican and 471 Democratic. And now comes Littlefield, Clerk of that Returning Board, and testifies under oath before the Congressional Committee, that on the 3d of December he altered the original returns from two of the polls in Vermont parish, so as to transpose 178 Democratic votes over to the Republican candidates; that he did this by express direction of Gov. Wells, President of the Board, and that after making copies of the altered originals and substituting them for the originals, the latter were turned either by him or Wells, he did not remember which, but at all events with Wells' knowledge.

In addition to the above infamous doings of this creature Wells, it is said on the authority of Wells himself, that he offered to sell the Electoral vote of the State for one million of dollars, saying "I am none of your two or three hundred thousand dollar man. My price is a round million."

Again, J. D. Berg, telegraph operator at Tallahassee, Florida, testifies to receiving a telegram from Z. Chandler to Governor Stearns, as follows: "We are now absolutely sure of as many electoral votes for Hayes (did not remember the number) and we must have Louisiana, South Carolina and Florida, by fair means or otherwise," and also another from the same to the same: "Send couriers to each county to secure returns; they must be made to show a majority for Hayes."

A SQUARE HIT.

At a meeting of the Committee on the Powers, Privileges and Duties of the House of Representatives, Professor Seelye, a few days ago, was making a very learned argument upon that part of the Constitution which says that "the President of the Senate shall, in the presence of the Senate and House of Representatives, open all the certificates, and the vote shall then be counted." Mr. Seelye, who is a Republican, was of course maintaining that Mr. Berg, the President of the Senate, had the absolute and indisputable right, not only to open the votes, but to do so counting. At a particularly vigorous and eloquent point in his argument, Mr. Froctor Knott, the chairman of the committee remarked: "Professor, I do not wish to interrupt you in your eloquent constitutional argument, but I want you to explain to me an invitation I have just received to dinner, the interpretation of which perplexes me a good deal. It reads as follows:

"The pleasure of your company is requested at dinner to-morrow evening, at Webster's, to meet Professor Seelye and other distinguished gentlemen. The dinner will be uncovered by the steward precisely at seven o'clock, and the dinner will then be eaten."

Now, what I want you to interpret for me, Professor," said Mr. Knott, "is who is to eat the dinner—the steward who uncovers the dishes, or you and I and the rest of the guests?"

OUR CORRESPONDENCE.

WOODLAND, Jan. 31, 1877.

EDITOR ADVOCATE: As the weather has taken a change for a dry season, (?) I thought I might scratch off a few lines to you. At present our town is very quiet, and "big" is slack, but St. Valentine's Day is coming you know, and St. Louis is preparing to meet the wants of all that may wish to avail themselves of choice and comic Valentines.

There was an installation here January 20th, of the L. O. O. F., forgotten by our local papers, or I do not know what. The following is a list of the officers installed by J. Knudson, D. D. G. M., on the date above stated: A. W. Tucker, N. G.; J. W. Goin, V. G.; R. H. Beamer, R. S.; J. W. Tiller, P. S.; R. B. Johnson, Treas.; D. M. Burns, Conductor; J. E. Selby, Warden; C. H. Gray and B. Tobias, S. S.; F. M. Hall, R. S. to N. G.; B. T. Ready, L. S. to N. G.; J. Atkinson, R. S. to V. G.; J. J. Reindoller, L. S. to V. G.; A. S. House, I. G.; Geo. H. Weaver, O. G.; Rev. W. O. Curry, Chaplain. The installation was private but satisfactory to all interested.

There are few workmen now in town, most of them having found work in the country, and will return a little more flush next autumn.

All signs at present indicate a favorable prospect for good crops, and if I am not mistaken, we will have a large amount of grain raised this season. More anon.

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 27, 1877.

EDITOR ADVOCATE: Believing that a letter from this Queen City of the Plains might be of interest to some of your many readers, I have taken the liberty of inditing this to you. The past year has been a glorious one for Sacramento; it has seen it wake from its drowsy slumbering, and throwing off the lethargy which enumbered it, and take its place as the second commercial mart upon this coast. Sacramento is now on the high road to prosperity. Its business facilities are rapidly increasing and the city shows vast improvement over a year ago. There are no vacant stores or dwellings, and stores all command good rent. Building is going on all the time, and old Sacramentoans say that the city was never so prosperous as now. Under the direction of City Trustee, Knox, the streets have all been graded, and the city paved with cobble stones. A new High School has been completed at Ninth and M streets that would be an ornament to any city. The C. P. R. E. has nearly finished filling up the slough in the rear of the Water Works, and Second street is opened to the bridge. There is one more thing the citizens of Sacramento must agitate, and that is the making of the Sacramento and Yolo Bridge free, and thus secure more of the trade of Yolo county.

A new manufacturing company has just been organized here for the purpose of establishing a manufactory of Agricultural Implements. Baker & Hamilton are the principal organizers of the company. The California Cattle Company also contemplates adding a plow manufactory to their already large business. All these improvements and investments of capital go to show that capitalists are commencing to find this is one of the best localities for investing. Sacramento well deserves success for her merchants have worked their "own salvation" through fire and flood, and against difficulties that would have discouraged most mortals. Let us hope that it has seen its last disappointment, and that the future contains nothing but sunlight and bright days.

T. E. Baker and T. B. Fockman, of Woodland, have been in town this week, also Dave Hedman and Tom B. Ely, of your town, on their way to Colusa.

ALJAX.

VALLEJO, Jan. 31, 1877.

EDITOR ADVOCATE: I believe I made a sort of half promise to occupy a small space in your columns once in a while, (that is I don't mean to occupy it myself,) but to fill it up with some of my nonsense. However a perusal of our spicy little "Daily Times," which usually contains a very fair synopsis of the current master of the day, will convince you at once from the paucity of its columns, how impossible it is for me to glean news enough to fulfill my promise of writing to you once a week. I dare not discuss the political question, as that is rather "mixed" and I don't like to refer to that little affair in Louisiana the other day, the transposition of Democratic votes over to the Republican candidates—how strange that such an oversight should occur, or having occurred, that it was allowed to leak out. Now if it had happened on the other side, no one would have been surprised for of course it is a well known fact that all the fraud committed during the last few months, has emanated from the ranks of the Democratic party. At least we have not heard of any before, from the honest Republicans, here in this part of the "wilderness." It is rather amusing to hear both sides of the question. Republicans who hold a life lease of the different positions on Mare Island, the Postoffice, and other little billets, are treating their best they should be "contented" before they are quite ready to leave, while others are equally afraid that they will not be.

Times are pretty dull here just now, although there are six Russian ships lying in the harbor, the officers and sailors of which give our streets at least a lively appearance. The Lackawanna also arrived this afternoon. We have had a goodly supply of rain with a prospect of more where that came from. By the way, speaking of rain, leads one to think of mud, and that reminds me to ask, "Have you ever heard of 'Fall-holders'?" A couple of very nice enterprising young men, (members I believe of the society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals,) have by putting their hands together invented an apparatus for holding horse's tails out of the mud. One of the inventors is so fortunate as to possess an undivided interest in the hearts of at least two young ladies. He at first paid strict attention to one of them, and she in the fulness of her gratitude, prayed fervently for rain in order to see the choice of her heart reap a golden harvest by his invention. But alas for the fruition of human hopes. Before Heaven had answered her prayer "a change came o'er the spirit of his dream." He transferred his affections to the rival belle, and now No. 2 leans fondly on the same coat, where that came from. One of the inventors is so fortunate as to possess an undivided interest in the hearts of at least two young ladies. He at first paid strict attention to one of them, and she in the fulness of her gratitude, prayed fervently for rain in order to see the choice of her heart reap a golden harvest by his invention. But alas for the fruition of human hopes. Before Heaven had answered her prayer "a change came o'er the spirit of his dream." He transferred his affections to the rival belle, and now No. 2 leans fondly on the same coat, where that came from. By the way, speaking of rain, leads one to think of mud, and that reminds me to ask, "Have you ever heard of 'Fall-holders'?" A couple of very nice enterprising young men, (members I believe of the society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals,) have by putting their hands together invented an apparatus for holding horse's tails out of the mud. LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

ARREST OF A MURDERER.

On the 20th December, Miguel Berres, nephew of the original locator of Berryessa Valley, living on Elk Creek, in the northern portion of Colusa county, who had always borne the reputation, we were told, of being an agreeable, hard-working man, while riding along the road on horseback, was shot and killed by some person concealed in the bushes. The murder created considerable excitement, and it being ascertained that an Indian, known as Tumbulo Martinez, was the party committing the deed, deputy sheriff E. A. Bridgford, accompanied by a posse, consisting of J. S. Vallandigham, Wm. Cassidy, Charles Goodrich, and McGraw, started in pursuit. They tracked him from Elk Creek to the coast range of mountains, which not being able to cross, on account of the great depth of snow, he turned and crossing Little Story or Briscoe Creek, thence on to Indian Valley, thence to Bear Valley and crossing Bear Creek, he followed down Cache Creek Canyon and brought up at Langville, where he sold Berres's rifle, which was recognized by having the initials of Vallandigham's name on the barrel, he having formerly owned it and sold it to Berres. Last Sunday forenoon Martinez passed through Winters on horseback, having behind him a young squaw dressed in man's clothes, who is said to have been the primary cause that culminated in murder. Early Monday morning deputy sheriff Bridgford, with two of his men arrived in town in pursuit, and learning that Martinez had formerly been heading sheep on the Beano side of Putah Creek, a few miles from this town, they proceeded to the spot indicated, and found their man and the young squaw in a cabin, after an eight days chase of over three hundred miles of rough country, and in the roughest kind of weather. The deputy sheriff left town on Monday afternoon train with his prisoner, for Colusa. On an examination of the body of the murdered man, no gunshot bullet holes were found in various parts of it, and it being evident that Martinez had partners in committing the crime, we learned that an Indian named Henry, was arrested on suspicion, and that the young squaw had confessed that Henry aided in the murder. Our informant stated further, that after the killing, they evidently riddled the body with bullets, both eyes having been shot out, and four additional bullets lodged in the head of their victim.

PUTAH CREEK.

The heavy rains of Monday and Tuesday raised Putah Creek from a rippling brook to the dimensions of a river a quarter of a mile wide and 12 feet deep. On Tuesday from 3 o'clock P. M. to 9 P. M., the water rose ten feet, but at the present writing, it has fallen 6 feet. A quantity of drift wood came down stream and passing under the railroad bridge went on its winding way, bringing up most likely in the tule, and secured previously by dwellers on the line of the creek, for firewood.

RENEWING HIS STOCK.

Thomas Keefe, of the Winters Pioneer Drug Store, has just received a large addition to his stock of drugs, medicines, perfumery and toilet articles, together with a supply of pure wines and liquors for medicinal purposes. Mr. Keefe having had many years experience in his line of business, we can commend him to the patronage of all who may have need of his assistance in carefully preparing drugs or medicines for the sick, as well as perfumery and toilet articles for those who are enjoying health.

LOOKING ROUND.

Mr. S. Wooten, who owns a steam flouring mill at Hayward, Alameda county, has been in town for two or three days past. Mr. Wooten is looking round our section, intending to remove his mill if a proper site could be obtained. That a flouring mill in or near Winters would prove a paying investment we have no doubt, and hope Mr. W. may be successful in attaining the object of his visit.

MADISON HERALD.

Material, presses, etc., have been purchased for the publication of a paper to be called the "Madison Herald," to be started at the new town of Madison, the terminus of the extension of the Yuba Valley Railroad. As a newspaper is a valuable adjunct to the prosperity of a rising town, the Herald has our best wishes for its success.

REMAND.

The lot of Chinamen convicted and sentenced to a fine of $200 each and 300 days imprisonment, for participation in the gambling game of tan, and who were taken before the Supreme Court on a writ of habeas corpus by C. T. Jones and J. C. Clunie, Sacramento lawyers, have been remanded to the jail at Woodland by the Court, to serve out their sentences or pay their fines.

RAILROAD EXTENSION.

Railroad ties for the extension of the Yuba Valley Railroad are arriving at the depot here and being distributed along the line of the extension, there being already on hand a sufficiency to lay more than half the track to its terminus at the new town of Madison.

REAL ESTATE SALE.

Theo. Winters has sold this week 350 acres of his land on the Yuba side of Putah Creek, adjoining town, to the Messrs. Hill Brothers, at the rate of $75 an acre.

PARANAT VALLEY AND SURROUNDINGS.

This beautiful valley, nestling among the hills of Solano county, a few miles from Winters, is noted for having the earliest fruit in the San Francisco and Sacramento markets. In our last we stated that in our neighborhood we had picked ripe oranges from trees, in the open air, while in Missouri the ground was frozen to the depth of two feet! Since then, we paid a flying visit to a small ranch, of 60 acres, situate on the summit of one of the valley hills, according to our calculation 600 feet above the level of the plains. We noted the entire absence of gravel on this hill top, the soil being a light, sandy loam. On looking over the ranch we observed apricot, peach, plum, orange, lemon, fig, quince and pomegranate trees, set out and growing, the buds on the apricot and early peach trees beginning to swell. We also saw tomato, squash and bean vines of last season, still looking green, and bearing fruit in all stages of development, from blossom to ripe tomato, etc., and this in the month of January, in the open air, on hill top, while in the distance the Sierra mountain range is seen covered with snow. This hill top ranch is owned by G. W. Hincley, and we are told lies above the line of frost. Pleasant to the eye was the view from this hill top, "The Capitol at Sacramento was in plain sight to the naked eye, also the towns of Dixon, Davisville and Winters, while all of Sacramento valley that the eye could take in, stood forth "dressed in living green." At our feet meandered like unto a ribbon of silver, the waters of Putah Creek (now assuming the proportions of a sizable river), which we could trace till almost lost in the tule, while on either side of the creek, embowered in foliage and surrounded by extensive wheat fields, vineyards and orchards, the eye could take in the Wolfkilla, Devilias, Wiggins, Abbey, Edwards, Bakers and Briggs homesteads, and others we knew not by name, and directly below us the Thissell, Finch, Brink and other ranches noted for their production of early fruit. It was our intention on starting out to make the tour of Pleasant Valley and the ranches of our friends in the environs of Winters, but being called away by pressing business, were compelled to defer our contemplated visit till a more favorable opportunity.

GRAIN BAGS.

Sim Buford, of Monticello, visited our section on Saturday, looking as usual, "fair and fat," if not forty.

Abe Morris, formerly of Dixon, lately of Winters and at present of Woodland, was in town on Monday. Abe thinks he is running the best saloon in the county.

Charles Clapp, who had been rusticated in Sacramento for a couple of weeks, returned to town on Monday.

L. Drigfus, of Woodland, was in town on Monday, looking as young and handsome as ever.

Ed. Fisher, of Blum & Co., returned from a visit to San Francisco on Monday, looking as fresh and hearty as if he had never left Winters.

We are pleased to learn that the two interesting children of Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Wolfkilla, who having been typhoid pneumonia, are improving.

Theo. Winters is about commencing the erection of a mansion on his land about two and a half miles below Winters, Yolo county.

Ed. Wolfkilla, we regret to learn, is lying ill at his residence, from an attack of typhoid pneumonia.

The apportionment of school money to our district is $415.

WILD GESE.—Monday forenoon wild geese passed over town in continuous flocks for the space of an hour and more. We thought we had seen some geese on that occasion, but our story dwindles into insignificance compared with that of the editor of the Fresno Examiner, who says:

At the first blush it may appear a little strange that a flock of wild geese should pass just below town, so large that it formed a column of birds seven miles in length, moving gracefully through the air, and yet according to the most accurate calculation that could be made, the statement is not far off the mark. The reader may say there must have been a great many geese, in that flock, and so there was; its length and breadth and the noise it produced demonstrated the proposition clearly.

A TELEGRAM from Rome says the Pope has privately notified four Italians, two French, two Spanish and two American ecclesiastics that they are to be nominated Cardinals at the next Consistory.

T. B. ALDRICH, the poet, resides with his family at Ponkapog, Mass., and only goes to town (Boston) occasionally. His headquarters and his Boston address are care of J. R. Osgood & Co., publishers.

This grand daughter of Mr. Richard H. Dana, Miss Charlotte Dana, has just been married, in Boston, to Mr. Francis O. Lyman, of Chicago. Longfellow, Hon. Robert C. Winthrop, and other dignitaries were at the wedding.

Mr. ROBERT BROWN is uncompromisingly opposed to the proposed republication of his wife's earlier poems—those which she herself excluded from her works as unworthy—but he can do nothing under present English laws.

The Rev. Phillips Brooks, Boston's pet clergyman, is of a lowing height. He is always in excellent humor, and has a keen relish for a good joke. He is so rapid a speaker that no photographer is able to report him verbatim.

The New York World says: W. H. Vanderbilt's public act of importance since his father's death will meet with general approval. He has practically given a quarter of a million dollars towards carrying out Strakosch's project of a "grand opera house."

FRANK HERRING, who was elected United States Senator from West Virginia, is an old California. He resided in Sacramento several years. In 1855 he was elected District Attorney for that county by the Know-Nothings. He left California about 1860, and West Virginia was made a State, and settled there.

Dr. SCHLEMMANN says he doesn't have any trouble in making excavations till he gets down to within a foot of the pebble-stones crossing the bodies of the dead. "Then," he says, "Mrs. Schlemmann and I have to do the work ourselves—the task is exceedingly difficult and painful, particularly in the present rainy weather, for we cannot dig without cutting our knees, and cutting with our away, so as not to injure or let escape any of the gold ornaments."

A DISTINGUISHED literary man says that one of the most impressive things he ever heard was a sentence of Emerson's spoken in the course of a half hour's extemporaneous lecture on Italy in a New England town. The wise man was describing the Venus de Medici. He simply said: "A walked—round—and round—the Marble—Lady!" but such was the depth and dignity of his tones, the distinct and lingering quality of his enunciation, that the little sentence drew a wondrous picture for his audience, and made an immense impression upon them.

JUDGE DAVID DAVIS, recently elected United States Senator from Illinois, is a native of Maryland, a graduate of Kenyon College, and a resident of Bloomington since 1845. He has been a member of the State Legislature, Circuit Judge, and later a Supreme Court Justice. He was a delegate to the Chicago Convention in 1860, a warm personal friend of Lincoln, and almost a candidate for the Presidency at the St. Louis Convention. He is an able and accomplished jurist, and a warm-hearted and scrupulously honest man, and will represent Illinois with credit in the United States Senate.

HARTS OF TURNER.—The house in which Turner, the painter, lived was so dirty and disorderly that it was known as "Turner's den." He was very untidy, and in this dwelling his peculiarly bad habits were long before the summer was over. The windows were never cleaned, and had in them breaches patched with paper; the door was black and blistered; the iron palisades were rusty for lack of paint. If a would-be visitor knocked or rung, it was long before the summer was over. He was repelled by a wizened, meagre old man, who would unfatten the chain, and the almost invariable answer was, "You can't come in." It was here that he kept for many years the greater part of his stores of pictures, shrewdly calculating upon the time when they should be worth thousands of pounds.

PROCEEDINGS OF CONGRESS.

SENATE.—By Mr. Merriman (who opposed sending away Senate investigating committees for the purpose of a compromise bill) should take testimony and collect information for the use of Congress.

Providing for the distribution of awards made under the convention between the United States and Mexico of July 4, 1848.

For organizing the Territory of Oklahoma, and the protection of Indians thereof.

To ratify an agreement made by Bishop Whipple and others with certain chiefs of the Sioux nation, and also with the Arrapahoe Indians. The bill provides for ratifying the agreement made with the Sioux nation, and for the cession of the Black Hills country, without any material amendment except one which omits provisions for removal to the Indian Territory.

To attach to the Territory of Wyoming a certain portion of the Black Hills country, and to extend the jurisdiction of the District and Circuit Courts of the United States for the punishment of crimes over Indian Reservations within the limits of organized Territories.

The Military Academy Appropriation bill, with an amendment increasing the appropriation for arms and accoutrements and cost of maintenance of the academy.

SENATE.—The House bill making appropriations for consular and diplomatic service of the Government for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1878.

The Compromise Electoral bill, introduced the previous week, was discussed several days last. Several amendments were offered but all were voted down. The debate continued through Wednesday night, the Senate not adjourning. At 7 o'clock on Thursday morning the bill was read the third time, and passed by a vote of 75 yeas and 17 nays.
